

TELEGRAMS, GROBY.

TELEPHONE, NO 1 ANSTBY.

STATION, LEICESTER 6 MILES, G. C. & M. R.

BRADGATE PARK,
LEICESTER.Oct. 2^o/18

My dearest Son.

I really can't believe you are really Mr. Lindsay Ewerard! It is thrilling. I do hope he is kind to you & does not beat you!!! He is such a dear, the more you see him the more you will love him. I am

So glad too for his sake that he is happily married He has such a darling wife.
Tom's wedding was a great success, every one said so, & if only it had been two people not quite so dear to me I should have rejoiced it thoroughly, but I felt rather inclined to weep & it took me all my time not to - so silly I always say, when two people you love are going to be so happy, to want to cry

I am longing to see you & talk it all over. I hear you are both enjoying the honey moon, I do hope it will be finer & warmer to morrow as it's been a fairly nasty day to-day & very cold. ^{new} But you have got the lovely fur coat to fall back on so perhaps you won't mind.

I think you looked sweet in yr bridal gown, & I liked Phyllis's veil, it did not look too much for you & was quite admired by many people I heard.

also the green band for the Emerald Isle!!

There are quite a lot more presents come for you both, I must try & get time to unpack & acknowledge them or the people will think they have not arrived.
I saw your mother & sisters & Miss Heppy on Sunday they did not seem at all dried & we had great fun at tea. The "Baby" is so lively & seems to enjoy it all so. Give my best love to your dear husband!!! & little heaps to yourself from us both. Ever yr affectly Muriel Everard.